Dear Hiring Team,

I would like to start by giving my condolences on the loss of your former CTO, Kristian. It must be incredibly difficult to deal with his absence as he must have been integral to the development of your product and platform. I can only imagine the impact the loss of two employees would have on a company. It will be tough finding the right person to fill his shoes.

It was with great interest that I read your posting on LinkedIn for the position of Chief Technology Officer at Brilliant. I respectfully proffer my candidacy for this position and have attached my resumé for your perusal. I am confident you will agree that I have the necessary qualifications to execute the tasks associated with the job.

I have 20 years experience in IT and 8 years experience as a IT executive. Having started work in the industry while still in high school, I'm experienced enough to know what to do yet young enough to have the energy to get the job done.

I have worked at corporate jobs as well as startups and while I excel in either environment, I really thrive in smaller environments where you are flying by the seat of your pants. I have a very broad set of technical skills with a focus on systems architecture, API's and software engineering. I take great pride in my work and my ability to see the big picture and align technical solutions with business goals. I like to get hands-on with projects but know how and when to delegate tasks and responsibilities.

I will strive to put your company at the forefront of the technology community where it will benefit from the attention it deserves. I have the training to be able to handle both the technical as well as the business side of a given issue. Further, I am a leader who will build a solid team dedicated to the development and implementation of technical solutions for STEM education.

I believe that to be a successful CTO of any company, you need to have experience, knowledge and technical ability; as well as an ability to supervise, mentor and coordinate talent into one direct objective. In short, I believe my years of experience, IT acumen and leadership skills could be of great service to your organization. I would enjoy the opportunity to be a part of the team that takes your company to the next level.

If you would like to discuss my experience in greater depth I am available via phone, video chat or, if COVID allows, in-person. I can be reached by phone or SMS at (415) 810-6991 or by email at cdr@cdr2.com.

Sincerely,

Christopher Robison
